Statement:

I am running for reelection because I see this state and our country headed away from the basic principles that built our country. It is critical that we reelect experienced proven leaders that are moral, principled, and qualified individuals or we will only continue down this path.

I believe a legislator should have real-world experience in all aspects of Alaska's economy and be able to translate experience and a solid education into common sense legislation that benefits their district as a whole, not just a select few. In my aviation career I have worked in all major sectors of the Alaskan economy and can tell you firsthand how this state works.

The single greatest issue facing District 9 is the high cost of energy. An all fronts approach that encourages hydro, LNG, wood, and other lower cost energy sources will go a long way to ease that cost.

Our state's oil production has stabilized but we must continue to diversify the economy. New energy and revenue sources like the AK LNG Project should be exploited to bring more industry and economic growth to all of Alaska.

We must encourage policies that help, not hinder business. A healthier business climate will lead to more jobs and greater prosperity for all.

I will support better education opportunities that best prepare all young Alaskans for entry into the work force, either through college or vocational training. If you're qualified and willing to work in Alaska, you should have the opportunity to succeed.
